Background: Virginia and Mary Jo's lives began to touch as Mary Jo studied Virginia's work as a doctoral degree student at North Texas State University focusing on becoming a clinical specialist in psychiatric mental health nursing and child psychiatry. From that original contact Virginia agreed to write a chapter in a book Mary Jo was writing on Development of Therapeutic Skills, published by Little Brown, Co 1970. From that initial meeting their paths kept intersecting as they embarked on studying energy therapy separately then together. There are a series of 9 films of their joint training called Helping Individuals and Families Change.

Mary Jo dedicated her early professional years supporting Virginia's dream of launching her teaching legacy in 1977 that was called Avanta Network. She served on the first board of directors of Avanta Network and coordinated the first training held in Park City Utah in 1982 with the University of Utah where Dr. Bulbrook was Director of the Psycho-Social Nursing Department. Mary Jo will present with Mary Leslie at the 100th Anniversary of Virginia's life & legacy in Vancouver, CA June 2016.

Diploma Program Goal: This worldwide training program prepares Diplomats in Integrative Health: Energy Therapy & Virginia Satir's Process – Helping Individuals, Families & Organizations Change. It can also be use as foundational training for other CAM degrees at Akamai University. AU is an internationally accredited Distant Education Institution of Higher Education. Definitions used for this program such as Integrative Health and Energy Therapy are nationally defined through official US governmental bodies.

Integrative Health defined by the World Health Organization in 2008 definition is used for this educational program.

Integrative Health involves bringing conventional and complementary approaches together in a coordinated way as defined by the National Center for Complementary and Integrative Health (NCCIH) the US Federal Government's lead agency for scientific research in these areas.

Energy Therapy is defined by the National Cancer Institute at the National Institute of Health. I quote:

Energy Therapy is a form of complementary and alternative medicine based on the belief that a vital energy flows through the human body. The goal of energy therapy is to balance the energy flow in the patient. It is used to reduce stress and anxiety and promote well-being. Currently Energy Therapy is being studied in patients receiving cancer therapy, to find out if it can improve the quality of life, boost the immune system, or reduce side effects. It is also called Energy Healing.

This Diploma program achieves the goal of integrating current mental health approaches to health and wellness, using the internationally recognized Virginia Satir's Process for Helping Individuals and Families Change with Energy Therapy.
