Akamai is internationally accredited by the International Distance Education Accreditation League (IDEAL). IDEAL is a member of the National Network of Quality Assurance Agencies (NNQAA), an association of recognized accreditors in the Philippines. As such, Akamai University degrees are recognized as equivalent with degrees across the international community. Akamai University is not accredited by an accrediting agency recognized by the United States Secretary of Education.

I understand that the Akamai University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national and ethnic origin related to all rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally accorded and made available to applicants or students at the school. I understand that the University gives preference in Admission to those students who demonstrate a high potential for success in completing the desired program through self-motivated study. Admission evaluations focus upon the duration, nature and content of prior experience and training and the value of the experience in relation to the degree objectives.
